Montana New Hire Reporting Program
Post Office Box 8013
Helena, MT 59604-8013

Dear Employer:

In 1997, legislation was passed on both a national and state-wide level which requires all employers to report the hiring of new employees. The New Hire Reporting Program allows employers to assist in the state's efforts to locate non-custodial parents using one of several convenient reporting methods. Child support staff then use the information to collect child support and reduce public assistance costs.

By joining forces, employers and the New Hire Reporting Program can work together to reduce the burden on our state's taxpayers and provide a better life for our state's children.

The New Hire Reporting Program can reduce from months to days the time it takes to locate the income source for someone who has moved to a new job.

In addition, timely child support payments to families who are not receiving public assistance can prevent dependence on welfare programs in the future.

Included in this brochure is a list of responses to frequently asked questions about New Hire Reporting, reporting options and critical time frames. Please read and review this guide as your part in the child support enforcement process is crucial.

New Hire Reporting staff are available by telephone to answer any further questions you may have.

Thank you for your support in making this program a success.

Sincerely,

Lonnie J. Olson
Administrator, Child Support Enforcement Division
Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services

General

This guide will provide you and your firm with all the information and a blank new hire reporting form to comply with Montana's New Hire Reporting Law. This law requires every Montana employer to report a minimum amount of information on each new employee hired or rehired on or after October 1, 1997. Each employer will receive a blank New Hire Reporting form with this New Hire Reporting brochure to make copies as needed. If you would like a preprinted form with your employer information, please contact our new hire staff.

Effective Date

October 1, 1997 - every employee hired, rehired or returning to work after a separation on or after that date must be reported by the employer to the New Hire Reporting Program.

What is required to be reported?

The information required to be reported applies only to employees hired or rehired on or after October 1, 1997. Include:

Employer: Name	Employee: Name
Address	Address
Federal Employer	Social Security #
Identification Number	Date of Hire

Optional Information

Although this information isn't required, initial reporting may save the need for another contact by the New Hire Reporting Program.

Employee: home phone number; date of birth

Employer: work phone number; fax number; state of hire; health insurance availability

When are reports due?

Reports must be submitted within 20 days of the date the employee is hired or rehired. If you will be filing your new hire reports by electronic media (see pages 11-13) using the "Format for Electronic Reporting", reports must be submitted not less than 12 nor more than 16 days apart.

Reporting Options

Telephone - Call the New Hire Reporting Program toll-free at 1-888-866-0327. For the Helena area, and outside Montana, employers may call 1-406-444-9290. Phones will be staffed between the hours of 8:00 am and 5:00 pm Monday through Friday except for state holidays. You may call after hours and simply record your information.

Fax - You may fax a New Hire Report on a photocopy of the form provided or fax a copy of the employee's W-4 form by dialing 1-888-272-1990. For the Helena area, and outside Montana, employers can fax to 1-406-444-0745. You will need to photocopy, as needed, the New Hire Reporting form provided in this mailing.

Electronic Media - Employers may submit reports on diskette or CD using the format outlined in the section entitled "Format for Electronic Report" on pages 11-13.

Internet - Blank NHR Form: <http://www.dphhs.mt.gov/aboutus/divisions/childsupportenforcement/relatedtopics/employerinformation.shtml>
Go to downloadable forms - New Hire Reporting Forms

Hard Copy - Employers may mail copies of the enclosed form, W-4 form or any other reporting form so long as it clearly delineates the requested information to:

Montana New Hire Reporting Program
P.O. Box 8013
Helena, MT 59604-8013

Regardless of the format used, please make certain all of the required information is included. Required W-4 information is listed on page one under the heading "What is required to be reported." For employees with no Social Security number, reports should be held by the employer until the number is obtained. Incomplete reports will be returned to the employer for correction.

New Hire Reporting

Answers To Your Questions

The federal government enacted welfare reform legislation called the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (PRWORA), requiring all employers to report certain information on their newly-hired employees to the State New Hire Reporting (NHR) Program.

Beginning October 1, 1997, all Montana employers must report all employees hired or rehired on or after October 1, 1997. The following are answers to questions that are intended to help employers understand and comply with NHR laws passed by the Montana Legislature.

General Issues

What is New Hire Reporting?

NHR is a process by which you, as an employer, report information on newly hired employees to the state NHR Program within 20 days after the date of hire. As an employer, you will play a key role in this important program by reporting all of your newly-hired employees within 20 days of the employee's date of hire or rehire.

What will be done with the New Hire Reporting information?

The information is confidential and may only be shared on a limited basis with other agencies. Montana NHR Program will match new hire information against the Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS), Child Support Enforcement Division (CSED) case records to locate parents, establish an order, or enforce an existing order. Once these matches are completed, Montana will transmit the NHR information to the National Directory of New Hires (NDNH).

State agencies operating Employment Security and Workers' Compensation programs may also have access to Montana's NHR information to detect and prevent erroneous or fraudulent benefit payments. In addition, Montana can conduct matches between the NHR database and the public assistance and Medicaid agencies for the purpose of determining eligibility, continued eligibility, or fraud.

Why have a National Directory of New Hires?

It is estimated that over 30 percent of child support cases involve parents who do not live in the same state as their children. By matching this NHR data with child support participant information at the national level, the federal Office of Child Support Enforcement (OCSE) will be able to assist states in locating parents who are living in other states. Upon receipt of NHR information, CSED will be able to take the necessary steps to establish paternity, or child support orders or to enforce existing orders.

What is the expected outcome of this New Hire Reporting Program?

The federal Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) has estimated that a NHR Program will increase national child support collections by $6.4 billion over the next ten years.

Prior to the passage of PRWORA, 26 states already had NHR. These programs resulted in significant increases in child support collections, reductions in welfare payments, and millions of dollars saved in Medicaid, food stamps and unemployment insurance claims.

Why was New Hire Reporting part of the welfare reform legislation?

A major focus of PRWORA is parents sharing the responsibility of supporting their children. It contains strict work requirements for custodial parents receiving public assistance and increases the effectiveness of CSE programs by including the development of NHR Programs in each state.

Won't this reporting process be a burden to employers?

The majority of the information you will be submitting is already being collected when a new employee completes a W-4 form. Although the reporting process is an additional requirement, the majority of employers currently participating in state-established programs report either "no" or "minor" cost impacts to their operations. To ease the process, Montana offers employers a variety of reporting methods, some of which are: 1-800 number to report new hires; 1-800 facsimile; preprinted scannable Montana NHR form; diskette or CD; 1st class mailing or any other paper form submitted by an employer.

Isn't this information available through quarterly wage reporting?

Quarterly data is often out of date before the CSED receives the information. There can be as much as a six month lag between the time when the data is submitted and when it is available to Montana's CSED. Montana NHR data will be available within 20 days of the date of hire, which is a significantly shorter time period. Because the data will be more current, non-custodial parents can be located more quickly, allowing child support orders to be established and/or enforced more quickly.

How will New Hire Reporting benefit employers?

A direct benefit to employers is the reduction and prevention of fraudulent unemployment and workers' compensation payments. Timely receipt of NHR data allows Montana and other states to cross-match this data against their active unemployment claimant (UIC) files—either stopping payments or recovering erroneous or fraudulent payments.

Definitions

What is the definition of "employer" for New Hire Reporting purposes?

Federal legislation states that an "employer" for NHR purposes is the same as for federal income tax purposes (as defined by Section 3401(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) and includes any governmental entity or labor organization. At a minimum, in any case where an employer is required to give an individual a W-2 form, the employer must meet the NHR requirements.

What is the "date of hire" considered to be?

The "date of hire" is considered to be the first day services are performed for wages by an individual.

If I lay off and then re-hire an employee, or an employee returns after a leave of absence, do I need to send in another NHR?

If the employee returning to work is required to complete a new W-4 form, the employer must report the individual as a New Hire to the State Directory of New Hires (SDNH). If, however, the returning employee had not been formally terminated or removed from payroll records, there is no need to report that individual as a New Hire.

Do I need to submit a New Hire Report for independent contractors and subcontractors performing services for me?

You must first make the determination of whether or not an employer/employee relationship exists. If the work being performed is based on a contract rather than an employer/employee relationship, you are not required to report. In such a circumstance, the contractor is responsible for reporting his/her employees.

As a temporary employment agency, must we report as a New Hire each individual placed by our agency?

If your agency is paying wages to the individual, you must submit a NHR. The individual needs to be reported only once, except when there is a break in service from your agency and a new W-4 form is required.

If your agency simply refers individuals for employment and does not pay salaries, NHR is not necessary. However, the employer who actually hires and pays the individual, whether on a part-time or full-time basis, will be required to report the New Hire information.

Are labor organizations and hiring halls required to report members under the New Hire Reporting Program?

Labor organizations and hiring halls must report their own employees, that is, individuals who work directly for the labor organization or hiring hall. As with a temporary employment agency, if the labor organization or hiring hall simply refers individuals for employment, a NHR does not need to be filed.

Administrative

When are states required to establish their New Hire Reporting Programs?

By October 1, 1997, all states were required to establish NHR Programs. 26 states had some form of NHR and those states had until October 1, 1998 to make all aspects of their program conform with the minimum federal requirements of PRWORA.

How soon must I submit a report after hiring someone?

Both federal and Montana laws mandate that New Hires be reported within 20 days of the date of hire.

What form do I use to send in my New Hire Reports?

Montana has developed a NHR form for employers to use. This form will be in addition to the federal W-4 form. The form must be completed by the employer and this employer information will only need to be updated by the employer if something has changed (e.g. address correction, Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN) change). The NHR form has three sections: employer information; employee information; and optional employee information. NHR can also be made on the W-4 form or, at your option, an equivalent form developed by you, but must be legible.

What must be reported on each New Hire Report?

Each New Hire Report must contain the following information:

- Employee name
- Employee residential and mailing address
- Employee Social Security number
- Employee date of hire
- Employer name, address and FEIN

Although optional, Montana is requesting the following additional information:

- Employee home phone number
- Is medical insurance available to the employee's dependent children? Y or N
- If medical insurance is available, what date is it available?
- Employee's date of birth
- Employer phone number
- State of hire

Do I need to do a New Hire Report on a newly hired individual who quits before the New Hire Report is due?

Yes. Because the employer/employee relationship existed and wages were earned, a NHR must be submitted. Even though the employment period was short, the reported information may be the key to locating a non-custodial parent.

Where and how do I send the information?

NHRs will be sent to the State Directory of New Hires. Federal law identifies three methods for submitting New Hire information: 1st class mail, magnetic tapes, or electronically. For employer convenience, states may offer additional options such as fax and Internet transmissions. Montana has established several reporting options (see pages 1 and 2) that employers will be able to use.

Federal employers must report New Hire data directly to the National Directory of New Hires.

Are there different reporting time frames for employers who will submit New Hire Reports electronically? What record layout should I use?

If you are an employer who is sending reports in by diskette or CD, two monthly transmissions must be made which are not less than 12 nor more than 16 days apart. Please refer to the section entitled Format for Electronic Report on pages 11-13.

How will the New Hire data be safeguarded once it is submitted?

Security and privacy of NHR data are important issues for all those involved in the implementation of this nationwide program. Federal law requires all states to establish safeguards for confidential information handled by the state agency. All Montana NHR data will be transmitted over secure and dedicated lines to the NDNH. Federal law also requires that the Secretary of DHHS establish and implement safeguards to protect the integrity and security of information in the NDNH and to restrict access to and use of the information to authorized persons and purposes.

Are there penalties for employers who do not report New Hires?

States were given the option of imposing civil monetary penalties for noncompliance. Montana has no penalties for employers who do not report New Hires. Even though Montana does not have penalties, all employers are encouraged to report all New Hires to the NHR Program within 20 days of the employee's date of hire.

Multistate Employer Issues

I am a multistate employer; do I have to report to each state in which I have employees?

An employer who has employees in two or more states and who transmits reports electronically may comply with the section by designating one of the states in which there is an employee and transmit the NHR to that state. See "Format for Electronic Reporting" on pages 11-13. A multistate employer who elects to report to only one state shall give written notice to the Secretary of the federal Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) of the state to which the employer will transmit NHRs. When submitting written notification to the Secretary of the federal DHHS, the employer should include the following information:

- Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN)
- Employer's name, address, telephone number related to the FEIN
- State selected for reporting purposes
- Other states in which your company has employees
- Corporate point of contact

Please mail all multistate employer information to:

Department of Health and Human Services
Office of Child Support Enforcement
Multistate Employer Registration
P.O. Box 509
Randallstown, MD 21133

How will states in which I have employees working know that I have selected another state for my New Hire Reporting?

The NDNH will maintain a list of multistate employers and their designated report locations. This list will be made available to all states.

What if I have more questions?

If you have more questions please call the Montana New Hire Reporting Program toll free at 1-888-866-0327. For the Helena area, and outside Montana, employers may call 1-406-444-9290. Phones will be staffed between the hours of 8:00 am and 5:00 pm Monday through Friday except for state holidays.

Thank you

All of us in the child support enforcement community thank you for helping to build the strong partnership that exists today between employers and child support programs across the country. The real beneficiaries are, of course, the millions of children whose lives are made more secure because their parents are paying child support through wage withholding. The NHR Program is essential to this effort and, together with wage withholding, should result in millions of increased support dollars for children. Your cooperation makes a difference in children's lives, and we thank you again for your commitment.

Format for Electronic Reporting

This page presents the submission requirements for those employers who submit forms electronically. It also delineates the minimum required for submission using either hard copy or electronic medium. Note that employers who wish to submit reports electronically may contact the New Hire Reporting Program at 1-888-866-0327, for the Helena area, and outside Montana, employers may call 1-406-444-9290 to obtain additional information about format.

Diskette: Reports submitted on diskette must be in ASCII listing format. In addition, an external label must be affixed to the diskette indicating the employer's name and Federal EIN.

CD: Reports submitted on CD must be in ASCII listing format. Include employer's name and FEIN on the CD cover and write (with CD marker pen) FEIN and NHR on the CD

The 9's in the data format represent character data. All data should be in character format, left justified and blank filled.

The two character state code must adhere to the United States Postal Services acceptable abbreviations for U.S. states and territories (example: Montana = MT).

- * The Foreign Address and Foreign Postal Code are only required if the employer or employee have foreign addresses.
-  The changed Employer Address Flag and Changed Employer Address fields are only required when the employer wants to report a change in address.
-  The Employee Residential Address field requirements are only applicable if the employee has an address different from the mailing address.
